

Swinging bridges walk

Mountain bike track

Test your skills on the new six-kilometre mountain bike track around the Tahune AirWalk. Along the way, take a break at the edge of the Picton River. While you catch your breath, you may even see one of the platypus that inhabit the river.

The mountain bike track is suitable for intermediate to advanced riders (children must be over 10 years of age). You are welcome to bring your own bike, or alternatively, bikes are available for hire.

Getting to the Tahune AirWalk

The Tahune AirWalk is a 90-minute drive south of Hobart. Take the Southern Outlet from Hobart then along the Huon Highway (A6) to Geeveston, follow the signs to the AirWalk along the Arve Road (C631).

Pick your own path to the AirWalk by taking time out to enjoy one of the many forest walks en route, all clearly signposted along the Arve Road.

Did you know that some of the tallest trees in the world grow in southern Tasmania? The Forest and Heritage Centre in Geeveston is the place to visit if you want to learn more. As a bonus to the AirWalk's admission fee, entry to the centre is included as part of your forest experience.

Explore the forest

The Tahune AirWalk now offers a range of fully guided tours, so that you can discover Tasmania's southern forests with a local.

You can touch a legendary Huon pine, hunt for mysterious forest fungi, or learn about the important scientific research that goes on right 'next door' to the AirWalk.

Our guides know just where to find that special highlight to make your day an experience to remember.

Tours run regularly and are complimentary with your admission fee. Inquire at the visitor centre for more information.

Tasmania's 'must-see' forest attraction

Experience the power of nature at southern Tasmania's must-see attraction, the Tahune AirWalk.

The Tahune AirWalk offers a full day of fun in the great outdoors for the whole family. Experience breathtaking views of the forest canopy, spine-tingling swinging bridges across the mighty Huon and Picton Rivers, the thrill of mountain bike riding, peaceful forest walks, and Tasmanian food and wine in the licensed café.

Eagle hang glider

Thrill seekers, you can't go past the Eagle Glide adventure. Feel the wind beneath your wings as you glide through tall trees and over the Huon River. You can even touch Tasmania's famous Huon pine from the viewing platform.

This 400-metre long cable hang gliding experience runs from the treetops to the forest floor.

Due to safety requirements passengers must weigh between 25kg and 100kg.

The AirWalk Lodge

Bookings essential – phone 1300 720 507

Can't fit it all into one day? Stay at the AirWalk Lodge and sleep among the giants of the forest.

The AirWalk Lodge is ideally suited to families, couples, school groups and backpackers, with a total of eight rooms accommodating up to 23 guests.

The heart of the Lodge features a communal lounge with a fireplace, a television with a selection of DVD's, books, newspapers, free WiFi access, a dining area, fully equipped kitchen and shared bathroom facilities.

Guests staying at the new AirWalk Lodge also have the exclusive opportunity to experience an 'owl's eye' view of the Tasmanian forest at night.

Tahune becomes an enchanted forest after the daytime visitors have gone home and the nocturnal animals come out to forage – and as an overnight guest, it's yours to explore as well. Special night-time trail markers guide you along the forest floor to the AirWalk, where you'll truly feel the power of nature as the mighty Huon and Picton Rivers converge in the darkness 48 metres below your feet.

The only special equipment you'll need to make this magical adventure your own is a torch – bring your own or buy a headlamp in the Visitor Centre.
